

Flair Airlines to launch flights to Punta Cana, Dominican Republic this fall

- Daily service will launch from Toronto and twice weekly service from Ottawa and Kitchener-Waterloo
- Flair enters Caribbean market with addition of direct flights to Dominican Republic
- One-way fares as low as $149

EDMONTON, May 11, 2023. Today, Flair Airlines, Canada's everyday low fare airline, announced the addition of a new country to its network. Starting in October, Flair will launch direct flights to Punta Cana, Dominican Republic. Canadians will be able to fly direct to Punta Cana International Airport (PUJ) from Toronto Pearson International Airport (YYZ), Ottawa International Airport (YOW), and Region of Waterloo International Airport (YKF).

Service from Toronto begins October 30 and will be daily, with twice weekly service from Ottawa and Kitchener-Waterloo starting November 1 and December 15, respectively.

"Today marks a very exciting milestone for Flair Airlines as we proudly announce our first flights to Punta Cana, Dominican Republic," said Stephen Jones, President & Chief Executive Officer, Flair Airlines. "We couldn't be happier to offer Canadians a new and exciting destination, at affordable fares. Expanding our network into the Caribbean is an important part of our growth strategy, and we can't wait to welcome travelers onboard for a sun-soaked getaway in Punta Cana."

With its crystal-clear waters, pristine beaches, and lush greenery, Punta Cana is perfect for those who want to relax and unwind – whether travelling solo or with friends and family. Enjoy a range of activities, from exploring the nearby coral reefs to experiencing the vibrant local culture.

One-way fares, including taxes and fees, begin at $149 on flights from Toronto, Ottawa, and Kitchener-Waterloo. There are limited seats and availability for the fares. All routes are available for booking at <https://www.flyflair.com>
