This document proposes a set of additional emoji characters for rapid incorporation into Unicode, with background, motivation and selection criteria described in L2/14-172. Specific factors or commentary may be listed under Notes on individual characters below. This is an initial proposal, and we can refine it further based on feedback.

The images here are purely illustrative and temporary; we would need to get redesigned images that are more consistent with the current chart glyphs. The categorization is simply for presentation.

There are roughly 80 emoji here, but the number may change as we get feedback on additions or removals. We anticipate having perhaps 50-60 in a first batch, so not all of these would be included.

3. Sports and recreation (7)

The rationale here is to provide coverage of the top 12 or so most popular spectator sports in the world; see for example:

- Top 10 Most Popular Sports in The World
- Most Popular Sports in the World

We also looked at web statistics for sports-associated words.

Of these, we already have characters associated with soccer, basketball, tennis, baseball, American football, rugby, golf. We need to the following to complete coverage:

Code	Image (illus)	Character name/ description	Notes
X300		CRICKET BAT	Change image to not include person.
X301		HOCKEY STICK	field + ice hockey; distinguish from golf club

Note that Unicode already has characters associated with bowling, skiing, snowboarding, running, surfing, swimming, cycling, mountain biking, fishing, etc.

4. Food items, plants (18)

Considering popular foods we don't have:

- Huffington Post, Most popular foods in the world: salad (green, noodle, etc.), chicken, cheese, rice, tea, coffee, milk, eggs, apples, soup, yogurt, bread. We are missing salad, cheese, milk, eggs, yogurt.
- Oxfam study of world's most popular foods, reported e.g. here: pasta, meat (pork / beef / mutton), rice, pizza, chicken, fish and seafood, vegetables, Chinese food, Italian food, Mexican food

Consider national dishes or dishes that have strong cultural significance to many people:

- National Geographic Top 10 National Dishes (not a very useful list)
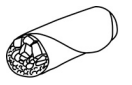

Campaigns for hot dog and taco emoji (and cheese)

- change.org hot dog petition, Facebook hot dog campaign
- change.org taco petition, LA Mag taco campaign, Facebook taco campaign, "…still no cheese or tacos"

Consider other foods highly requested or associated with holidays or other events

- cheese wedge (multiple lists), burrito (multiple lists), taco, cupcake, bagel, baguette, croissant,
- popcorn in striped box (movies), etc.

Collecting these ideas:

- A useful inventory of symbols: VA headstone belief emblems.
- Lists of religious buildings and structures

X602		SYNAGOGUE	Fleshing out set of religious buildings.
X603		KAABA	http://distantchimes.blogspot.com/2010/06/which-way-is-mecca.html

We could add a buddhist temple using a superimposed symbol, such as is done with X602 above.

Issue: instead of specific buildings, should we have a TEMPLE that people should follow with a religious symbol?

Comment: add Discuss relation between map symbols and emoji.

6. Animals (19)

For animals, selection factors are:

- the highest frequency animal names on the web
- whether the animal is a common food animal
- whether the animal is associated with personality traits http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Stereotypes_of_animals
- whether or not the animal is often used metaphorically (eg, "shark" for lawyer or danger).

* Animal faces are exchanged more often than the full view of the animal, so (despite the illustrative images), it is recommended that we make the animals be faces where that is sufficient to distinguish the animal. The images would need to be updated on the starred items below.
